FOREWORD

The series of Publications of the Illinois State Historical Library began in 1899, with the issuance of Volumes I (A Bibliography of Newspapers Published in Illinois Prior to 1860) and II (Information Relating to the Territorial Laws of Illinois Passed from 1809-1812), both edited by Dr. Edmund Janes James. Dr. James also edited Volume III (The Territorial Records of Illinois), published in 1901. The series of Transactions of the State Historical Society began with Volume IV (for 1900) and continued through Volume XLIII (for 1936), interrupted only by Alphabetic Catalog of the Books, Manuscripts, Maps, Pictures and Curios of the Illinois State Historical Library, 1900 (Volume V, Jessie Palmer Weber, editor), and A List of the Genealogical Works in the Illinois State Historical Library (Volume XVIII, 1914, and Volume XXV, 1919, Georgia L. Osborne, editor). Following the Transactions for 1936 the format and title were changed, the publication appearing under the title Papers in Illinois History, 1937 through 1942, after which the issuance of any publications aside from the Society's quarterly Journal was discontinued due to the paper shortage during World War II. The Papers were a continuation of the same series as the Transactions, although the consecutive publication numbers were omitted, and they are herein indexed as Volumes XLIV to XLIX inclusive. When book publication was resumed in 1947 under the title Occasional Publications of the State Historical Society, the first volume of this series (The Diary of James T. Ayers, Civil War Recruiter, edited by John Hope Franklin) received the number L. This index covers the above-named fifty volumes. To date (April, 1953), there has been only one volume issued in the second half-hundred: Old Illinois Houses, by John Drury (1948).

Volumes V, XVIII, and XXV, being themselves alphabetical lists of books, and being moreover greatly outdated by lapse of time, are not exhaustively indexed in this volume. In so far as possible, with the normal allowance for human error, all names appearing in the other forty-seven volumes covered by this index appear therein - except a few listed by surname only, once each, and not otherwise identifiable, which have been intentionally omitted.

The form of this index follows so closely normal indexing form that the only peculiarity needing mention is the use of expanded type for titles of articles appearing in the Publications, indexed under the names of their authors.

Although almost every volume of the Publications had its own index, up to this time there has been no way to tell in which volume a particular name or article appeared, other than the scattered references in the 95-page General Index to Collections, Journals, Publications, 1899-1928, prepared in 1930 by Juliet Gilman Sager. A comparison of the size of that volume with the 1317 pages of the present index, covering the Publications only, will show at a glance how much more exhaustive this volume is.

Where names appeared in an erroneous form in the Publications articles, and the correct form has been found, the latter is used. For clarity and consistency, the names in the old French records have been put into the same form as those used for English names; married women indexed under their husbands' surnames, Jr. replacing fils, etc.

An index of this magnitude, though it has all been done under the direct supervision of the compiler, cannot be entirely the work of one person. Acknowledgments are due to the staff of the Illinois State Historical Library and of the Abraham Lincoln Association for help rendered in many cases and in many ways throughout the preparation of the index. In the actual physical work of making cards, alphabetizing, etc., the compiler wishes to thank Mrs. Ethel T. Adams, Thompson J. Kelly, Ronald C. Kennerly, and Benjamin Wilson for much needed and appreciated assistance.

In spite of all the care taken to make this index as complete and as accurate as possible, it would be too much to hope that no faulty identifications have been made, or that the thousands of references have been copied and recopied without any errors. Any user of this index who discovers any mistake herein, or who can furnish a fuller form of any name than is given, will confer a favor on the compiler and the Library by supplying the information.
